Hoffa Faces Fight Over Police

NEW YORK (AP)—A drive to organize New York City's 24,000 policemen into James Hoffa's corruption-tainted Teamsters Union ran into stiff opposition yesterday.

Mayor Robert Wagner and officials of non-union organizations representing police said they would fight the move.

The mayor also hinted that Henry Feinstein, a city employee leading the organization drive, might be fired.

Feinstein, supervisor of transportation at $8,500 a year in the office of Manhattan Borough president Hulan Jack, is president of a city employees' local of the Teamsters. The mayor described Feinstein's efforts to organize the police as "a disgrace" and as "dastardly."

Feinstein announced early this week that the local would picket police headquarters Jan. 12 and gradually extend the picketing to 80 precinct stations and other installations such as supply depots.

But he denied yesterday he ever had said the picketing was intended to halt teamster delivery of supplies to police installations. He said it was intended to dramatize teamster efforts to organize the police.

In Navy Colors

Tradition Ends

OTTAWA (CP) — On New Year's Day, 1960, a tradition dating back nearly a century will disappear from the Royal Canadian Navy.

Except for medical officers, no officers in the navy any longer will wear branch distinction colors on sleeves, collar badges and shoulder straps.

Removal of the colors is optional during 1959 but will become compulsory Jan. 1, 1960.

'Greatest Year' Ahead

KELOWNA (CP) — British Columbians can look forward to a prosperous 1959 and the province's "greatest year" in 1960, Premier Bennett declared yesterday.

In a New Year's Eve message, the premier warned, however, that Canadians must take a "new look" at national policies if Canada is to avoid a recession and unemployment.

"As we approach 1959, I am more optimistic over B.C. than ever before," the premier said.

But it was important that the government have the co-operation of labor and management and farmers and business men.

Referring to Canada as a whole, Mr. Bennett said this country is in "the world's best location" next door to the rich U.S. But this very location meant Canada "must have a dynamic national policy to compete and survive with a prosperous economy."

He believed the Canadian dollar should be pegged at about 90 per cent in relation to American currency, Canada should have a low interest rate policy and she should establish a "more realistic" export credit corporation to help finance surpluses in agriculture, primary products and manufactured goods.

Canada should also have a great national highway program similar to the U.S.

Mr. Bennett said he believes these policies would result in a great economic development and prosperity with full employment and in reduction of the national debt, thus ending debt financing.

"I predict that unless the Diefenbaker government brings about such changes, he will not last long," the premier said.

His Query On Castro Meant Jail

MIAMI (UPI) — A young school teacher said yesterday a simple question on the Cuban civil war caused a group of Cuban secret policemen "who looked like hoodlums" to seize him and a friend at gunpoint from an airliner at Havana.

Larry Brantley vigorously denied accusations by Cuban authorities that he shouted rebel slogans at Havana airport Monday night.

Brantley and James Reid, a fellow teacher in Louisville, Ky., were released Tuesday night.

Brantley, 22, said the incident started when his plane stopped in Havana as he was returning from a Jamaica vacation.

"I walked up to two gentlemen and said, 'can you tell me how close to Havana Mr. Castro is'?"

One of the men replied: "Down here, you don't say things like that."

Moments later, a man "who looked like a hoodlum" started after him when he and Reid returned to the plane, where they were arrested.
